THE BAND

Amanda V - Vocals

Amanda started singing and performing live at the age of 8 and has studied voice throughout her career, including studying jazz and opera in college. She is currently finishing her vocal performance degree at the University of Colorado at Denver. Her early vocal influences were Ann Wilson, Pat Benetar, Gladys Knight, Diane Schurr and Patti LaBelle. She has been performing in the Denver metro area since 1991, with various bands such as The Miles Apart Band, Millennium, Boogie Machine, Naked Lunch, Pharaohs of Funk, and Hip Pocket. She also enjoys freelancing with bands that need a last minute vocalist.

Michael Miller - Keyboards

Michael began playing the piano at the age of eight and never stopped including music in his life. He earned a BME in Music from Southwestern Oklahoma State University and took his talents into the Oklahoma school system where he educated students for our future entertainment. Michael had the privilege to work with world renowned Jazz artists such as Dianna Reeves, Clark Terry, Urbie Green, Michelle Becham and Steve Wilkerson. He continued on with his music career working with top Denver entertainment projects including, Rhythm Alliance, VIP, Backstreet, Mystery, Kan't Get Right, Ripp Griffen & Bump City Groove. Ever since seeing Journey in 1980 for the very first time at Red Rocks, Michael has been a devoted fan.

David Madouros - Guitar

After graduating from Musician's Institute in 1994, David played in several successful bands in Southern California including Open Focus with Brian McCleery. During his tenure in SoCal, David's band played with well known acts including: L.A. Guns, Slaughter, Black and Blue, and Bang Tango as well as members from acts including: White Lion, Tesla, KISS, and Steel Panther. In 2005, David returned to his home state, Colorado, and went into semi-retirement until he received a call from Brian in the spring of 2011. Brian had relocated to Colorado and was trying out for a Journey tribute band that also needed a guitar player. The rest is history...

James Dikes - Bass

As an accomplished artist, James has wheeled his unique style in the front-range area for the past 15 years. Originally from California, James studied jazz theory at DeAnza College and worked in the blues scene with acts Little John Chrisley and Andy Mazilli. When James moved to Colorado, he hooked up with touring R & B rock group Mystery, hitting the road for 3 ½ years. He studied under L.A. session player Ben Adkins, and has recorded and played shows with hard rock group Mudcrawl, and jazz/reggae/funk group Fina Dupa and worked "on call" for modern jazz groups Dotsero, the Brad Bietry Quartet, Mike Nelson and the Motel Kings, and Smokin' Joe and the Mighty Burners.

Brian McCleery - Drums

Born in Utah, Brian started his music career at eight years old with his elementary school band. Within a couple of years, Santa gave him his first drum set and was promptly reprimanded by Brian's parents. At 21, his family moved to Southern California where, in the late 80s, the Hollywood music scene was exploding. Over the years, numerous bands have come and gone, but friendships remained; such is the case with Orange County ex-bandmate David Madouros. After relocating to Colorado in 2005, Brian and David reconnected through social media and are now, once again, part of an amazing musical camaraderie.
